

CONTENTS

Foreword to the Second Edition by Albert Ellis	xiii
Preface	xvii
About the Authors	xxi

PART ONE A Basic Introduction to REBT

1. Albert Ellis and the Philosophy of REBT	3
Who was Albert Ellis? And What Did He Do for Psychotherapy?	3
Ellis the Person and the Theory	6
Rational Emotive Behavior Philosophy	9
Rationality as a Personal Philosophy	20
2. Rational Emotive Behavior Theory	21
The Seven Principles of REBT Theory	21
Cognitive Theory and Rational Emotive Behavior Theory	23
REBT Theory of Psychopathology	24
Increasing Rational Beliefs or Decreasing Irrational Beliefs	25
Adaptive/Healthy and Maladaptive/Unhealthy Emotions	25
Levels of Cognitions and Disturbance	28
Cognitive Mechanisms of Disturbance	31
Definition of Irrational and Rational Beliefs	33
Types of Irrational Beliefs	34
Relationships Among Irrational Beliefs	36
Why are People Irrational?	39
Distinctive Features of REBT Theory	39
A Major Misconception	40
3. The Irrational and Rational Beliefs	43
Demandingness	43
Awfulizing	46
Frustration Intolerance	48
Global Evaluation of Human Worth	50

PART TWO General Therapeutic Strategies

4. The A-B-C Model and Teaching Clients the B to C Connection	57
The A-B-C Model	58

- Teaching Clients that Events Do Not Cause Unhealthy/Dysfunctional Emotions 59
- Teaching the Client that Other People Do Not Cause Our Unhealthy/Dysfunctional Emotions 60
- Teaching Clients that Past Events Do Not Cause Unhealthy/Dysfunctional Emotions 62
- Disturbance about Disturbance 64
- Expanding the A-B-C Model 65
- 5. Getting Therapy Off to a Good Start 68
  - Setting the Stage Interpersonally 68
  - Establishing Rapport 71
  - Socializing the Client to the Model 74
  - General Assessment 74
  - Identifying Treatment Goals 78
  - Agreeing on Treatment Goals 78
  - Problems in Achieving Common Goals 79
- 6. Basic Therapy Skills 82
  - Qualities of a Good REBT Therapist 82
  - Processes of Change 87
  - Elements of the Session 88
  - Outline of a Working Session 88

PART THREE The A-B-Cs of REBT: Assessment

- 7. Identifying the A 97
  - The Expanded A-B-C Model 97
  - Clarifying the A 101
  - The C Becomes an A 106
- 8. The C: The Emotional and Behavioral Consequences 110
  - Disturbed versus Undisturbed Emotions 111
  - Trouble-Shooting Problems Identifying the C 114
  - Mixed Functional and Dysfunctional Emotions 114
  - Guilt about C 114
  - Shame about C 115
  - Little or No Emotion in the Session 116
  - Fear about Emotions 116
  - Confusing the A, B, and the C 117
  - Confusing the A and the C 118
  - Descriptive Deficits 119
  - Dichotomous Thinking 121
  - Mislabeling Emotions 122
  - Unclear Labeling of Emotions 122

- Lack of Apparent Distress 123
- Emotion in the Session 125
- Agreeing to Change the C 125
- Behavioral Aspects of C 128
- Teaching Transcript 128
- Transcript Segment 128

- 9. Assessing the B 134
  - Finding the Irrational Beliefs 134
  - Multiple Irrational Beliefs 142
  - Assessing Irrational Beliefs Associated with Dilemmas 145
  - Guides to Finding the Irrational Beliefs for Specific Emotions 147
  - Other Guidelines 153
  - When All Else Fails 154
  - Teaching Transcript 154

PART FOUR Therapy: Getting Down to D—Disputation, and E—the New Effective Response

- 10. Cognitive Change Strategies 161
  - What to Dispute 161
  - Cognitive Disputation 163
  - Styles of Cognitive Disputing 170
  - Constructing Alternative Rational Beliefs 179
  - Levels of Abstraction 180
  - A Case Example of Disputing 187
- 11. Challenges to Specific Irrational Beliefs 190
  - Disputing the Core Elements of Irrational Beliefs 190
  - Awfulizing 201
  - Human Worth 204
  - Frustration Intolerance 210
- 12. The Effective New Belief (EB) 213
  - Strengthening the Conviction in the New Rational Belief 213
  - Distinction between Rational Beliefs (RB) and Effective New Beliefs (EB) 214
  - What We Want to Accomplish with the EB 214
  - Ingredients for Formulating an EB 214
  - Replacing Irrational Beliefs with EBs 215
  - With What Do We Replace the Irrational Belief? 216
  - Replacing an Imperative Irrational Belief with an EB 217
  - Replacing a Derivative Irrational Belief with an EB 218
  - Constructing the Effective New Belief from a Choice-based Assessed Irrational Belief 220

- How to Recall the Compound Sentence 221
- Testing the New Belief 223
- Why Do Clients Use Irrational Beliefs? 225
- Helping Clients to Use the EB 226
- Choices 227
- All Stages (A, B, C, and D) May Have to Be Repeated 228

- 13. Evocative, Imaginal, and Behavior Change Strategies 230
  - Evocative, Emotive Techniques 230
  - Imaginal Change Strategies 238
  - Behavioral Change Strategies 242

- 14. Problems and Solutions in Challenging Irrational Beliefs 244
  - Trouble-Shooting Disputational Problems 244
  - Client Behaviors That Block Change 248
  - Cautions 251
  - Conclusion 254

- 15. Therapeutic Styles: the How not the What in Disputing Beliefs Using an Active Directive Style 261
  - Didactic Lecture versus Socratic Dialogue 263
  - Form of the Questions 266
  - Maintaining the Focus on the Problem 267
  - Repetition 270
  - Language Style 271
  - Intonation 271
  - Silences 272
  - Flexibility 273
  - Scheduling 274
  - Rigidity in Therapist Behaviors 275
  - Issues of Transference and Countertransference 275
  - Concluding a Therapy Session 278
  - Summary: Ten Common Errors to Avoid 279

PART FIVE The Therapeutic Whole

- 16. Homework Assignments 285
  - Examples of Cognitive Homework Assignments 289
  - Examples of Behavioral Homework Assignments 294
  - Examples of Emotive Homework Assignments 301
  - Happiness Assignments 302
  - Trouble-Shooting Homework Problems 302
  - Phasing out the Therapist's Development of Homework Assignments 305

- 17. Comprehensive Rational Emotive Behavior Therapy 306
  - Directly Changing the Behavioral C 307
  - Developing a New Cognitive Response to the A 309
  - Testing the Accuracy of the A-(inference) 311
  - Explanations about the A-(confirmable) 315
  - Changing the A 317
  - Accepting the A-(inference) Thoughts, Irrational Beliefs, and Unhealthy C 322

- 18. The Course of Therapy and Beyond 324
  - A Sample Treatment Plan 324
  - Expanding the Focus of Therapy 328
  - Continuing Therapy 329
  - Termination of Therapy 331
  - Enhancing Treatment Benefits after Termination 336
  - Supervision 338

- Appendix 341
- References 357
- Index 373