

Contents

Acknowledgements	vii
Introduction	1
Part 1 Problematical Intellects in Ancient Greece
1 Ancient Philosophy and the “Worst Disability”	15
2 Aristotle and the Slave’s Intellect	25
Part 2 Intelligence and Disability: Socio-economic Structures
3 The Speed of Intelligence: Fast, Slow and Mean	39
4 Quick Wit and the Ingenious Gentleman	49
Part 3 Intelligence and Disability: Status and Power
5 In-group, Out-group: the Place of Intelligence in Anthropology	63
6 Honour, Grace and Intelligence: the Historical Interplay	77
7 “Souls Drowned in a Lump of Flesh”: the Excluded	93
Part 4 Intelligence, Disability and Honour
8 Virtue, Blood, Wit: from Lineage to Learning	103
9 “Dead in the Very Midst of Life”: the Dishonourable and the Idiotic	125
Part 5 Intelligence, Disability and Grace
10 From Pilgrim’s Progress to Developmental Psychology	151
11 The Science of Damnation: from Reprobate to Idiot	179
Part 6 Fools and Their Medical Histories
12 The Long Historical Context of Cognitive Genetics	207
13 The Brain of a Fool	219
14 A First Diagnosis? The Problem with Pioneers	235
Part 7 Psychology, Biology and the Ethics of Exceptionalism
16 The Wrong Child: Changelings and the Bereavement Analogy	261
17 Testing the Rule of Human Nature: Classification and Abnormality	281
Part 8 John Locke and His Successors
18 John Locke and His Successors: the Historical Contingency of Disability	313
Works Cited	347
Index	369