

Contents

1 Evolutionary Psychology and the Propositional-Attitudes:
Why the Cognitive Turn is a Wrong Turn . . . . .	1
Varieties of Propositional Experience. . . . .	1
The Intentional Bogeyman . . . . .	2
Sociobiology and the Propositional-Attitudes . . . . .	7
The Cognitive Turn in Evolutionary Psychology. . . . .	9
The ‘Intentional Systems’ Model of Mental Evolution. . . . .	10
The Information Processing Model . . . . .	12
Propositional-Attitudes and Mind/Body Dualism. . . . .	17
Intrinsic Intentionality and Folk Psychology. . . . .	22
Folk Psychology: The Best or Worst of Intentions?. . . . .	26
Conclusion: The Mechanist Stance . . . . .	27
2 Why I am not an Evolutionary Psychologist: On the Imperative
Nature of Motivational Endowments. . . . .	29
Motivational Endowments . . . . .	30
Proximate Mechanisms: The Central Role of Emotion, Drive and
Reward . . . . .	31
Are Emotions Proximate Mechanisms? . . . . .	34
The Ghost in the Reward Mechanism . . . . .	37
Why Proximate Mechanisms Matter . . . . .	42
Folk Psychology Redux . . . . .	43
The ‘Psychologic Gambit’ Versus the Mechanist Stance . . . . .	44
Evo-Devo Versus Evolutionary Psychology?. . . . .	45
The Physiologic Gambit in Evolutionary Psychology. . . . .	47
Conclusion: The Psychologic Gambit in Decline or Reductionism
at Last! . . . . .	49

3 Postscript: The Virtues of Weak Modularity . . . . .	51
Portrait of the Mind–Brain as an Evolved Epigenetic System . . . . .	54
Hominid Evolution and Cognitive Fluidity . . . . .	56
Weak Versus Massive Modularity . . . . .	60
Modularity and the Theory of Multiple Intelligence. . . . .	63
Explaining the Evolution of the Pleistocene Mind–Brain . . . . .	65
Epilogue . . . . .	69
References . . . . .	73
Index . . . . .	83